Fish and Game Club Members Pay Tribute to Two Workers

Annual banquet honors Llewellyn Robbins and William McCarthy—Conservation officer speaks—History of club given by President Adsit—Rebekahs serve supper.

Tribute to the work of Llewellyn Robbins and William McCarthy was paid by members of the Addison Fish and Game Club at their eighth annual banquet held in Odd Fellows Hall Tuesday night. There were 88 members and friends present to honor these two charter members and ardent workers in the club's behalf.

President Vernon Adsit presided as toastmaster. He presented Mr. Robbins who was instrumental in building the club house and its additions and improvements. Mr. Robbins said in part, "I can work better than I can talk. However, eight years ago some sportsmen met here to plan a conservation club. Warden Ray Reed bought the first membership. A trap for shooting was placed on the LeMunyan farm and when it was moved to the Vastbinder farm and then to its present location at McCarthy field. The first work was to set the board walk around the trap. High Varn suggested a club house and shortly after we built it. Each president has added to the club and made it better. Now we have a lunch room, 12 by 12 and a club 30 by 20. A wind charger has been donated to power the lights installed by Bud Bowman and Leland Little. We now have a big light in the kitchen and four lights in the club house. We hope for a larger membership and some good times at the club from now on."

Mr. McCarthy responded to a brief toast. He donated the land for the club and also took care of the raising of small pheasants and liberated them in the vicinity.

President Adsit gave a resume of the fish and game handled during the past year. He also paid tribute to three members of the club who have died during the past year, being James Erwin, Dan J. Colbert and James Rouse of Woodhull.

He introduced Inspector Anthony De Ross of Rochester who is working in this vicinity during the deer season. Eddie Bush, his deputy who has been working as a deputy for 30 years, Messrs. Merchant and Hutchinson of the plant department of Hobart College, guests of Warden Ray Reed.

Warden Reed showed some interesting specimens of wild life taken from this vicinity and told of some of the habits of deer, fish and other game. He has much illustrative material for his interesting talk. Among articles he displayed were the skin of a fawn to show how it blended with nature, deer horns in various stages of development, eggs of bullheads, trout eggs, carp eggs and fry, rainbow trout, brown and brook trout in various age classes, rat-tail maggots and many other wild life exhibits. He answered questions relative to deer and fish, both hunting and their lives. He pointed out that the number of points does not indicate the age of a deer, the fact that all males lose their horns and the horns are beginning to be polished in August. Many other questions were answered.

Mr. Adsit then gave a history of the Fish and Game Club which will be published next week in the Advertiser-Sentinel.

Small Deer Take Here in Season Ending This Week

Many hunters in this vicinity saw deer but were unable to get a shot at them this year and the take of deer will be much less than last year when over 1200 were bagged in Steuben County alone. Now, with seven counties in the Southern Tier open for deer hunters this week, the going is tough.

Last year a light snowfall aided the hunters in getting deer, but this year, with no snow on the ground, hunters are finding it difficult to track deer.

Game Warden, Ray S. Reed, in charge of this district, with several deputies and state police, has found few violators and few have been reported.

Addison and vicinity was tops for the hunters, for more deer were taken near here than in any part of the county. Friday was the opening day and about 15 deer were taken in the whole county of which five were from this vicinity and the rest scattered. Beartown, east of here, was a mecca for hunters for hundreds were in the woods there early in the morning.

An albino buck was seen near here and has been sought by hunters.

This village was headquarters for a large army of red-coated individuals. The army on the march from here filled the hotels and several private families had hunters from outside the county.

Violations reported were for killing doe, and illegal killing and transporting.

Plan Christmas Basket Gifts Monday Night

Preventing duplication of Christmas baskets to the needy and underprivileged will be the discussion of representatives of community organizations here Monday night. Members of organizations and individuals planning to distribute or contribute to Christmas baskets are asked to meet with a group at the home of Dr. and Mrs. A. G. Stiker, Park Place at 8 o'clock.

Such organizations as American Legion, Red Cross, Masons and Eastern Stars, Odd Fellows and Rebekahs, Civic Society, Boy and Girl Scouts, town welfare department, church organizations and many others contribute to or distribute baskets. Each is asked to have a representative at the meeting Monday night at 8 o'clock.

In the past it is known that one family received five baskets while others just as needy received none. It is to prevent such duplication and to insure every family having one that the meeting is being called.

It is expected that names of those who have been receiving baskets will be submitted to the group and by this interchange of names duplication will also be prevented. Anyone else in the community interested in this joint project is invited to attend this meeting.

Religious Education Program Outlined for Addison School

Board members hear five-clergy plan explained by the Rev. Axtell and the Rev. Kirsch—Religious instruction will be voluntary on part of parents and students—Instruction to start in January.

Religious education for the public school children of Addison, with the permission of the parents, was outlined and discussed at a meeting of the Board of Education Tuesday night. The plan was presented by the Rev. John V. Axtell of the Presbyterian Church and the Rev. Russell O. Kirsch of the Episcopal Church, acting for five clergymen of the community. Details of the plan are now being worked out with the idea of starting the program in January.

The plan, known as "weekly religious education" has been sanctioned by state law. Letters will be sent to all parents concerned with return cards as to whether they wish their child to have this instruction. Then each child concerned, will be excused from school one period a week to attend religious instruction in their own church under their own pastor. They will be subject to school discipline and attendance records will be kept the same as in school. And attendance will be just as compulsory as at regular school sessions. Children whose parents do not return the cards or do not want their child to have this religious education will remain in school to complete the day as at present. Several details of the plan have yet to be worked out and President Maurice Miller appointed Andrew Knebel and Robert A. Willson a committee from the Board to confer with officials at Painted Post where the plan has been in operation for several years and also to confer with the clergymen of the community on clergy-board relationships and plans.

All board members present Tuesday approved the plan in principle. Children from the third to sixth grades inclusive are to be included in the plan here for the first experimental period from January to June.

As originally planned, the students were to be taken in age groups, but owing to lack of personnel and plans at present each clergyman will set up his own teaching method. In some communities a non-sectarian and undenominational lesson is used. There will be home work, memory and hand work the same as in regular school sessions.

Details will be announced after further conferences between clergy and board. The general consensus of opinion among board members seemed to be in favor of some form of voluntary religious education for the children to supplement the regular school work.

Antlered Doe Shot by Elmiran

Nature played a trick on a doe born in this vicinity and as a result that doe is dead, shot by a hunter's bullet. The doe had horns which at the time of the hunting season of last week measured nine inches in length. Add to this phenomena the fact that the horns were in the velvet, with that smooth velvety finish which is not characteristic of deer horns at this season of the year.

Peter Chalk, 354 East Center street, Elmira, was hunting with three others in the vicinity of the Richtmyer farm, Cameron Mills, Friday. He saw the horns and shot, only to discover the deer was a doe when he got close to it.

Those with him were George Guild and Floyd Fenner of Elmira and Alfred Welch of Cameron Mills. They brought the freak to Addison where Game Warden Ray Reed and State Trooper Bailey viewed the carcass and after examination permitted Mr. Chalk to keep the deer.

A NEEDED STRIKE

"What we need in this country is a taxpayers' strike!" The words were spoken by a businessman, who is among the many convinced that only by militant opposition of the people to the piling up of taxes can a halt be called.

Doubtless the principal reason taxpayers have shouldered the load without going on strike against too much government is due to the fact
so many taxes are the concealed, or hidden type that Mr. and Mrs. John Q. Citizen overlooks. It is a fact that scores of people who are questioned
will state with great assurance THEY pay no taxes. The other fellow may be hurt by excessive spending sprees, but as for them, well why worry about something that does not touch YOUR pocketbook.

That is where they are fooled, and unquestion-ably the lawmakers who devise tax collecting measures have taken great pains to deceive them.
For every person who eats, drinks and even sleeps is an assistant to the forces which extract taxes from our citizens. If you use an electric light you pay about a third of the bill in taxes, if you chew gum you pay taxes, if you smoke cigarettes
you pay taxes, if you go to the movies you pay taxes, if you get in your automobile and try to escape from the clutches of the tax collector you run smack into his arms instead. For every automobile driver pays taxes in scores of ways which begin with his license and run through every part of the car, not ending even when the exhaust pours out of his muffler. For the muffler blows up or rusts out and presto the car owner buys
another which carries its own load of tax.

Because these things are hidden taxes the ordinary person does not think he is paying taxes, unless he actually lays down the cold cash for real estate or income taxes. Yet the fact a person is renting does not let him escape paying real estate taxes, he must pay them indirectly through the rent. Actually it is now known that Americans are now taxed up to 23 per cent of their incomes. Just think of it—almost a quarter of the money we earn is poured into the insatiable mouth of the tax-collecting monster which gobbles enough each year to keep one-quarter of our citizens—about 33 million people.

What is done with all this money? That is the question the man in the street had better start asking. The answer will be as difficult to learn as it is hard to find how many actual taxes
there are represented in every article you bring home from the store. Yet the answer is one which should be asked insistently by every American. We have a right to know, for we are paying the bills. It is up to the legislators who write the tax bills to explain many things, but first of all they should explain the reason why they have burdened all our necessities of life
with taxes over a period of the last few years.
It is something they do not like to explain, because the answer is plain enough to anyone with reasoning power to think. They pile on hidden taxes, instead of direct taxes so the taxed citizen will not "feel" them so abruptly. For citizens who are fully conscious of the tax burden are also conscious of the waste which eats up huge amounts of tax money, and it would not be well to let very many citizens wake up to that fact at election time. Legislators have to be re-elected from time to time, and how hard it would be to face the voters if the voters knew the full truth
about waste in tax funds!

Yes, it is time for a taxpayers' strike. It is time to run out of office the men who burden the people down with taxes which, though invisible, are none the less a strain upon every person's income. It is time to clean them out and at the same time clean out the waste and inefficiency
in government so the next batch of politicians who get elected cannot follow right along with the same kind of wasteful spending.

LIGHT OF FREEDOM

Those who used to forecast that if a war broke out in Europe sentiment in this country would swiftly grow martial, were apparently mistaken.
All the evidence indicates that the great bulk of our citizens are grimly determined that this time we shall stay out—and that, irrespective of our sympathies, Europe's quarrels are not ours.

Certainly there is reason in this point of view.
For if the war goes on for years to a bitter and exhausted end, all that is best in Europe will be submerged, perhaps for generations. It is here, in the Western Hemisphere where there has been no major war for three-quarters of a century, that the fruits of civilization must be protected and nurtured and developed. We have many big jobs to do at home in these unpredictable times.

And the biggest of those jobs is to see that the light of freedom, which has been extinguished
in so much of the world, is kept burning here undimmed.

CROSSED MOTIVES

Congressmen who voted for repeal of the arms embargo law with sincere belief that the new neutrality law was designed primarily to keep this country out of war must have been somewhat disillusioned by this time. Certainly the carefree manner in which the President treated the possibility of transfer of registry of American vessels
to Panama gave no assurance to the country.

Secretary Hull could hardly have discussed the matter with Mr. Roosevelt, for the head of our State Department spoke out at the same time as the President saying that transfer of registry of American vessels to allow them to enter the combat zones for trade would not be in accordance with the spirit of the embargo law. What a surprise it must have been to Mr. Roosevelt, who himself is so found of throwing bombshells, to have his Secretary of State utter those words at the same time that he was saying in effect that transfer or registry would not conflict with the new law.

One thing is sure, both the President and the owners interested in the transfer kept strangely silent about any such plan until after the two Houses of Congress had voted. One can well imagine the fuel which would have been thrown on the debate in the Senate had word leaked out the Administration did not actually intend to keep our boats out of the war zones as appeared on the surface. It all goes to show that back of all the camouflage was concealed the real motive—a desire on the part of many proponents of the bill to help the allies rather than to keep the U. S. out of war.

FREEDOM OF THE HANDBILL

Justice sometimes consists of choosing between two kinds of nuisances. In the Supreme Court ruling Wednesday on anti-handbill ordinances of four American cities, the Court had to decide between the simple inconvenience of having one's doorstep and streets occasionally littered with un-ordered literature and the potentially serious suppression of freedom of expression. This may seem trivial in some respects but may prove basic to all other liberties in the long run. The Court held in favor of the right to distribute pamphlets or leaflets so long as these are not merely broadcast in the street.

One wonders if the relative concentration of control of newspapers in the United States during recent years has had anything to do with the Supreme Court's thinking on this case. Certainly it has something to do, at any rate, with the significance of the decision.

A century or so ago it was possible for almost any printer with a Washington hand-press and the proverbial "shirt-tail full" of type to set up a newspaper of sorts; and it was a small town indeed that did not have four or five journals of fairly lively opinion. For mechanical and financial reasons, ownership narrowed down as papers were bought up, merged, or discontinued. Radio has become a medium also of influencing opinion, but a radio station involves a large investment, the number of commentators who can win a hearing
is limited, and there is always the shadow of possible censorship of radio.

Hence the handbill or the pamphlet is the resort and the instrument of small causes. Most of course, are chaff. But here or there, one of them may become a big cause. The dry earth of human thinking is notoriously hard to crack. And among the chaff there will likely be some grains of wheat whose sprouting heads must have a chance to push up to the sunlight and feed humanity with new ideas. Yes, the freedom of speech and press are, as Mr. Justice Roberts emphasized, "fundamental liberties."—Christian Science Monitor.

ECONOMY FOR DEFENSE

Sentiment for sharp cutting of other government spending to make way for expected increases
in defense appropriations at the regular session of Congress appears to be making headway in official circles. Senator Byrnes, one of the majority leaders, is quoted as saying: "I think that we are going to find that the people at home are willing to spend all that is needed for national defense, but that they are going to want to cut down on some of the other government spending."

This year more than $1,750,000,000 was appropriated for defense, and it is now believed that an additional deficiency appropriation will be required because of the "emergency" increase made in the army and navy. And men close to Washington affairs estimate that considerable more than $2,000,000,000 will be appropriated for defense purposes in the fiscal year beginning July 1 next.

It should be obvious to the most rampant advocate of government spending that it would be an insane policy to pile new and greatly enlarged defense expenditures on top of our other "deficit expenditures". National security is as much dependent on a sound economic structure at home
as it is on battleships and airplanes and tanks.
If necessity forces an increase in our defense appropriations, necessity also requires elimination of non-essential spending in other fields.

The whole federal "emergency" and "relief"
structure is alive with waste, duplication of effort,
and inefficiency. It is as much the duty of Congress to reduce government costs wherever possible as to provide the gigantic sums which are now apparently needed to build up our military and naval establishments.

The Rambler

Even thumbing is becoming a lost art. Last week two Alfred University students wanted to hitch-hike to New York. So they inserted a want ad in one of the nearby papers, and secured the ride. Such is the power of want ads. Pardon the plug.

Who around the community uses the term, "Heavens to Betsy" quite often?

A speaker in the Grand High School speaking on "The Romance of Alcohol" stated that every drink shortens a person's life by 25 minutes. I'm sure he erred a bit there for according to that some people I know have been dead quite some time. They must be well preserved also.

I do not know whether to feel flattered or insulted. One day last week a chap rushed up to a preacher in town and accused him of being me. I have been mistaken for a school teacher and other things, but never a preacher; and it is a new experience.

Whether by design or accident I do not know, but the arrangement of seats in the first four rows at the Dairymen's League meeting in the Town Hall last Tuesday spelled out the letters "foles".

There are many people in this world who like to have their own way. And when a person does not agree with them they call the opponent "Communist" or "Red" or some other such name, when in reality they mean someone who thinks for themselves. I've noticed lately that some local people have used that name in applying it to others and I'm sure if they will read "Communist" literature or "Red" literature they will find how much in error they are for most of those about whom they are talking are Christians with a firm belief in God and opposed to atheism and the distribution of property.

Mrs. Catherine Glosson Heck was quite fortunate for she won the turkey which she served at her wedding party on Thanksgiving Day.

Now is the time to think of your Christmas shopping and a good plan to think of doing that shopping is right here in Addison. Make out your lists and then if your merchant has not the merchandise he can secure it for you in plenty of time.

And speaking of Christmas I'm most heartily in accord with the movement on foot here to centralize the giving of Christmas baskets. A meeting is to be held next Monday night at Dr. Stiker's with representatives of various organizations present. The object is to learn who will need baskets and then to see that they get one and not three or four or more baskets from several sources.

And another movement here I'm in sympathy with and I'm sure will be endorsed by most parents, is that of having religious education for public school children. Clergymen of the five churches have met and outlined a plan which they were to present at the Board of Education last night. There is more need for God in our lives and what we learn when young stays with us a long

LOOKING FORWARD

More and more the word "slick" has become associated with the New Deal. Folks used to say that the New Dealers were smart and clever. But now they speak of them as being "slick". Behind the expression is the growing thought that the New Deal constantly is trying to put something over—that it is not laying all its cards on the table.

In view of recent incidents it appears that the average man in using the word "slick" as a deception of the New Deal has properly appraised what is going on in Washington. It will be recalled that the first time the word "slick" generally was applied to a New Deal activity was during the Supreme Court packing controversy.

Mr. Roosevelt, it will further be recalled, asked Congress to pass legislation which would enable him to increase the size of the Supreme Court. He argued that the courts were behind in their work and that those jurists over 70 years of age needed assistance and that therefore, if they did not resign at that age, he should be authorized to name wet nurses for them.

Court Plan Called Slick This scheme was termed "slick" because it was perfectly obvious that Mr. Roosevelt was not in the slightest concerned over congestion in the courts—he had failed to fill vacancies which had long existed—or over the age of the jurists. Mr. Roosevelt obviously wanted to pack the Supreme Court in order to get favorable opinions from that tribunal on certain legally-dubious pieces of legislation. His plan was so "slick" it did not work!

More recently the country witnessed another New Deal effort which brought forth the term "slick". It was the scheme, after the passage of the Neutrality Act barring American ships from belligerent ports, to transfer a number of United States Line ships to the registry of Panama. Not a word about such a move was uttered during the debate in the Senate on the "cash and carry" provisions. Yet the plans obviously were then being formulated and they violated the spirit of those provisions.

Only the fact that the public generally recognized the scheme as "slick" and made known its dislike for "slick" undertakings prevented its consummation. One day Mr. Roosevelt and his Secretary of State seemed disposed to defend the action. The next day they turned their backs on it. Again it was found that being "slick" does not pay!

F. D. R. Puts Over Slick One But Mr. Roosevelt seems to learn slowly. Hardly had the Panama ship scheme been laid aside than Mr. Roosevelt made a speech laying the cornerstone of the new Jefferson Memorial in Washington. Extemporaneously he inserted a sentence into his speech which at first hearing might indicate he would seek a third term. Two days later time.

Don't forget the Red Cross drive is still on in Addison and our contribution for local and national emergencies will be welcomed by the committee.

And among the don't forgets, don't forget to buy Christmas seals to help the underprivileged children who need the open air. Four children from Addison were cared for at the fresh air camp last year maintained from your purchases of Christmas seals.

How, What and Why

This paper has arranged with the Office of Information of the New York State College of Agriculture and Home Economics to answer questions about problems of farm and home. If you enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope, and mention the name of this paper, you will receive a direct reply to your query from the colleges. Do not ask more than one question in one letter or on one post card. Ask as many questions as you like, but make each one a separate communication.

Flower Bulbs Killed Mrs. F. T. asks: "How can I get rid of those short-tailed meadow moles (not the blind ones)? They are destroying all my lily and tulip bulbs, and last winter they even gnawed the bark and leaves off a small cedar tree so that it died. My neighbors are having the same trouble."

Dr. W. J. Hamilton, Jr., of the zoology department replies: "From your description of the small animals, I imagine the injury is being caused by field mice."

"These small pests can be effectively controlled in the garden and about the home by the use of poison and small traps. These methods are explained in some detail in Cornell bulletin E-338 which tells how to control field mice and rabbits in orchards. A copy has been sent to you."

Can't Be Done L. F. asks: "How can I prevent yellow pine flooring, which has been finished to show the grain of the wood, from turning darker as it gets older?"

Professor B. B. Robb of the department of agricultural engineering answers: "No way is known that this can be done, because yellow pine contains certain substances in the wood itself which, when acted on by light, cause the wood to darken even after it has been varnished or waxed. I have had this experience in my own home."

"It seems that the only way to have light-colored or natural wood floors is to use such woods as oak or maple which usually remain the color they are finished."

Trumansburg—Eligee Conner set a trap in a tree to catch an owl which had been raiding his chicken yard. An owl was caught in the trap, rapped sharply on the head by Mr. Conner. He later returned to remove the bird from the trap, and much to his surprise, the bird he thought was dead, attacked him, inflicting severe wounds.

Andover—National Youth Administration workers will fix Andover Grove for a picnic grounds.

he told the newspapermen he had done so solely for his amusement at watching the expressions on their faces. Pretty "slick", eh what? Not all the newspapermen thought so!

Now, however, there comes to light another New Deal effort to be "slick". This time about a more serious matter. Under the heading "PLAN DEVISED TO DODGE U. S. DEBT LIMIT," the Washington Post carried, under the name of Cecil B. Dickson of the International News Service, this story:

"A secret plan to avert the necessity of Congressional action increasing the present $45,000,000,000 national debt limit in the election year of 1940 has been devised by Administration experts, it was learned last night."

"The plan, calling for use of the borrowing powers of the New Deal lending agencies to help finance Government expenditures, was conceived after the Democratic leaders advised the Administration that the issue of raising the debt ceiling imperiled the chances of a Democratic victory in the Presidential election."

"Under President Roosevelt's budget estimates the national debt will reach $44,458,000,000 on June 30. The Treasury reported today it had passed the $41,210,000,000 mark on November 15."

"The secret plan entails the selling of securities by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the Home Owners Loan Corporation and the Federal Housing Administration to private investors, the funds to be used to retire obligations of those agencies held by the Treasury."

Plan to Juggle Books In other words, Mr. Dickson reported that a plan is on foot by the New Dealers to engage in a little juggling of the books, a little financial chicanery, in order to avoid letting Congress decide whether the national debt limit should be increased.

The Government would still owe the money, whether it borrowed directly by one of its agencies or by the Treasury, since loans of the former are guaranteed by the Treasury. The only difference would be that the agency loans would not be reflected in the national debt figure. The true condition of Federal finances would be hidden from public view—and the New Deal thus hopes to escape the consequences of its reckless, extravagant spending policies.

Pretty "slick", isn't it? But it is too "slick" to work. The American people have become wise to "slick" schemes and this one will arouse their hostility, just as did the "slick" Supreme Court and Panama ship registry schemes!

KNOW YOUR LAW

By Carroll E. Mealey, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles

(Editor's Note: Below are presented some questions and answers on the subject of the Vehicle and Traffic Law and rules of the road. Readers are invited to submit questions to Information Service, Bureau of Motor Vehicles, Albany, N. Y.)

Q. May traffic be regulated at more than one intersection by the same traffic control signal?

A. Yes, if provided by local ordinance. In this case an appropriate sign indicating such a regulation should be conspicuously displayed at each intersection to be regulated.

Q. Does this same law apply on state highways?

A. No. On a state highway, the traffic control signal controls only the intersection at which it is located.

Q. Is there any law against riding a dog on the gas tank of a motorcycle?

A. There is nothing specific in the law governing this but the driver could properly be charged with reckless driving.

Q. Can a man with a motorcycle license (only) drive his mother's or father's car?

A. If the license contains a restriction that it is valid only when a motorcycle is being operated, it is illegal to operate any automobile.

Q. Can three people ride on a motorcycle (no side-car)?

A. The law provides that the driver of a motorcycle shall not carry any person thereon except on a seat securely fastened to the machine in the rear of the driver and provided with foot rests and hand grips, or, in a side car attached to the motorcycle.

Old Landmarks
J. Oskamp

Many venerable old apple trees in New York State stand as landmarks of the pioneer days. In the early days, apple trees were produced largely from seed brought from the old country by the colonists who settled in America. Apple growing was thus first established in the Plymouth Colony.

New York, therefore, cannot boast of having the first apple tree in this country, but it can pride itself on having the first grafted tree. The pioneer nurserymen were the first to promote the grafting of fruit trees, and thus helped to put the apple industry on its present business and commercial basis.

An outstanding character among these early nurserymen was one William Prince who founded a botanical garden at Flushing Long Island, about the middle of the 18th century. Among the early varieties that originated from old-country seeds was the Rhode Island greening. This variety found its way into the hands of Mr. Prince who propagated it by grafting in the nursery.

As the tide of immigration turned westward, apple seeds were carried into the central and western parts of the state. As a matter of fact, apple trees even preceded the white man in central New York. Fruit and seeds fell into the hands of the Indians who carried them into the wilderness beyond the frontier of civilization.

For their early plantings, the Indians cleared places in the woods. When General Sullivan made his raid into western New York in 1779, he found apple orchards bending with fruit.

CHAPTER CHATTER

The Dairymen's League meeting which was held in Addison last week was fairly well attended by both delegates on Tuesday and by members on Wednesday. It is quite evident that in a large organization of this kind that contact with the members is one of the most important functions of the officers of the organization. The members of such an organization must be kept fully informed regarding the workings of the organization, otherwise many misunderstandings will arise. It is not the people who come out to the meetings who are misinformed but rather those who stay away and who make no effort to learn about their organization or why certain things are done. It costs considerable in time and money to keep members informed of the workings of any organization, but probably this expense will bring far greater returns in the end than money spent for almost any other thing.

The ability to get people to work together is a rare quality that few possess. More effort is needed along this line, especially with young people. Many organizations such as the Future Farmers and 4-H Club are designed to aid in this important function.

Wilfred Hurd who graduated from the Agriculture Department of the Addison High School, and who last year was graduated from the College of Agriculture at Cornell University, has accepted a position with the Farm Security Administration and is now located near Albany. While in High School Wilfred was president of the local chapter of Future Farmers of America.

Rathbun Pleads With Businessmen To Become Interested in Farmer

Dairymen's League vice president spoke to over 300 here last week—He warned businessmen that they should help the farmer maintain the present prices—Many questions asked of him and of President Fred Sexauer.

Business is picking up because farmers are getting a better price for milk, Henry Rathbun, vice-president of the Dairymen's League, told a group of 300 dairymen and others at a meeting held here last Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Rathbun advised business men to take a more active interest in the affairs of the farmers in the milk shed.

He was the first speaker on a program which was reported in last week's issue of the Addison Advertiser-Woodhull Sentinel.

The morning program opened with an address of welcome by Milton H. Crane, president of the Advertising Club. He cited the dependence of this community upon the well being of the farmer, and mentioned the fact that if milk production stopped in this vicinity, Addison business men would go out of business, hence the business men do have an interest in the farmer's welfare.

Mr. Rathbun was then presented by Chairman Carl Carpenter of Woodhull and spoke vehemently as follows:

"We dairy farmers are all working toward a common objective—a living price for milk that will be permanent," said Henry H. Rathbun of New Hartford, first vice president of the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association.

"A living price for milk has been our objective for 20 years. Time after time we attained it. Every time we achieved that goal we allowed our common enemies to lead us down a side road chasing false values—we lost sight of our real objectives.

"False values are constantly being set up by the enemies of cooperation. Their purpose is to divert farmers from their true purpose. The spread between the return that Dairymen's League members get for their milk and what some other farmers get delivering to a dealer with a fluid market is one of the false values that are kept before farmers.

"That spread should always be as small as possible. It should never be allowed to divert farmers from their real purpose. With 60 cent milk for everyone there is no spread, but is that to be preferred to $2.25 milk with a little spread? Dealers have ways of widening the spread. A little cheating on weights and butterfat tests will do it. Not all of them resort to such trickery, but some have been known to do so."

Whereas, the present Rogers-Allen law is working satisfactorily toward securing us a fair price for milk; and,

Whereas, we expect that unscrupulous dealers and other misinformed persons will endeavor to have this law repealed or amended so as to be of no practical benefit;

Therefore Be it Resolved, that we urge our officers and members to be ever watchful of all legislation or other attempts to nullify this law.

FIRST STOP... on the way to YOUR DOORSTEP!

What's happened to the old milk house on the farm? It's gone modern. You'll find it painted and clean as a pantry inside and out—or replaced with a brand new building handier to the dairy barn. It has to be spic and span because it has to pass regular sanitation inspections.

This is the first milk "depot" after I've milked the cans full. Here it is cooled and kept safe and pure till it can be rushed to your local milk company for pasteurizing and distribution.

Next time you have a chance to visit a modern New York dairy farm, go see what all I do to help bring you better milk.

School Board Praises Music—Other Business

The work of Glenn L. Sprague and members of the Addison High School band was praised by members of the Board of Education Tuesday night at their regular monthly session. The work of the band in bringing prestige to the school came after Principal Irving R. Gladstone had presented a request for Director Sprague to attend a meeting in Rochester this week-end for teachers of music in New York State schools. Mr. Sprague is a member of a committee to select the musical score to be played in Class "C" schools in state competition. The request for permission was granted and with it $15 for transportation, registration and food and lodging. Mr. Gladstone pointed out that famous music directors would be there to show how selections should be played and much help can be secured by attendance at this meeting.

This is not setting a precedent in the opinion of board members for William Miller, physical education instructor was given expenses to a state meeting in Syracuse last year, yet was denied permission for this Tuesday evening. Some board members felt the music units brought more statewide honors to the school than any other program.

Principal Gladstone was given permission to attend a meeting of Associated Academic Principals of New York State in Syracuse December 27, 28 and 29.

Members of the board are invited to attend a meeting of the Associated School Boards of Steuben County in Cohocton December 12. It is expected several members will attend.

A bill of Lowe & Campbell for $31.77 for athletic supplies was held up pending investigation of the auditing committee. The reason for the holdup is a Syracuse law on the books of the board stating that all athletic equipment is to be purchased locally and at 10 per cent above cost, to which many local merchants have agreed. President Miller stated local merchants can supply the goods as cheaply as others and the business should be kept here.

President Miller brought to the attention of the board that a power line on the grammar school building and an open stairway in the rear of the building had been repaired at the suggestion of an insurance inspector.

The football trophy recently awarded the high school for winning the league title from Arkport and Avoca was on display and will be suitably engraved. The trophy case, now on the third floor of the building, may be moved to the assembly floor. Trustee William E. Pepper will investigate the cost of removing the case and if the work will cost too much at this time the work will not be done owing to the cut in state aid.

Seniors will be permitted to make their annual Easter trip to Washington under proper chaperonage, according to a resolution passed at the meeting. The power lawnmower is being repaired at a cost of $30.

Bills audited and ordered paid Tuesday were: Teachers' payroll for November, $2,567.64; janitors' payroll, $224; Sisto Lumber Co. for supplies, $15.53; Crane Insurance Agency, $71.65; annual contribution to Addison Public Library, $175; Henry Shelansky, rent, gas and oil, $5.50; Leonard Hoaglin, repairs, $35.28; Corbin Lock Co., $10.94; H. D. Taylor, $18.58; Samuel French, $8, theatrical makeup box; New York State Gas & Electric, $76.77; Addison Gas Co., $1.76; G. A. MacGreevy, books and supplies, $33.90; Addison Home Phone Co., $5.70; L. E. Handy, hardware, $6.03; Central Radio Shop, radio tubes and repairs, $2.90.

Spectacular News, But — — — Buy Christmas Seals

Spectacular headlines, flaming headlines, could be written that would be flashed across the front pages of every paper in the country if only the condition they report were new:

"175 die daily in U. S. from dread disease"

"60 million men, women and children infected by deadly germ"

"64,000 victims will die within year"

Sixty-four thousand persons will die within the next twelve months! While the figure is roundly accurate and true, there is nothing new in this disease. The public is apathetic because the story is so old—the old, old story of tuberculosis. Why not ask ourselves this year "What can we do about it?"

The answer is "Buy Christmas Seals!" Your local tuberculosis association is appealing to you for help to carry on its work, work that it has been performing in cooperation with medical and public health authorities for many years. Those would-be headlines can give you some idea of the scope of the task it undertakes in the prevention and control of the disease. In the last three decades alone, since the time Christmas Seals were first sold in these United States, the tuberculosis death rate has been reduced by over two-thirds.

"Protect Your Home From Tuberculosis—Buy Christmas Seals" is the national campaign slogan for the 1939 seal sale. Such protection has been the business of the Christmas Seal for thirty-two years. Let us buy enough Christmas Seals to insure its message being brought into every home in our community.

Catherine Closson Becomes Bride of John Heck

Thanksgiving Day of 1939 will long be remembered by Mr. and Mrs. John H. Heck, for it was on Thanksgiving Day that they became bride and groom in the Addison Methodist Church.

Mrs. Heck was Miss Catherine Closson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Closson, Farnham street and the groom is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Peter Heck, Germany. The wedding ceremony was performed at noon of November 23 by the Rev. Nicholas Van Cossaboon. Mr. and Mrs. Warren G. Stiker, Elmira, were the attendants. The latter is a sister of the bride.

The bride was prettily attired in a blue crepe gown, teal blue hat and blue accessories. She wore a shoulder corsage of baby breath and American beauty rosebuds. Her attendant was gowned in beige with a dubonnet hat and she wore tulle and baby breath shoulder bouquet.

Mr. and Mrs. Closson entertained the members of the bridal party at a dinner in their home, Farnham street. A pyramid wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and groom and yellow poms were the decorative features on the table and about the home.

The newlyweds left by rail Thursday night for Washington, North Carolina and intermediate points. Upon their return December 1, they will make their home at 517 North Wilber avenue, Sayre, Pa.

Mrs. Heck has been employed locally in Foodland for the past several months and also as clerk in the Laftkas Ice Cream parlor and the Red and White store for several years after graduating from Addison High School in 1928. She took an active part in alumni affairs and was a decorator with an artistic flair for the unusual.

Mr. Heck is a graduate of Labenheim High School in Germany, class of 1917. He came to America in 1925 and settled in Sayre where he took an active part in community affairs, being captain of the fire department there for eight years and chief for the past year. He is employed as a mechanic in the Lehigh Railroad Shops there. In addition he owns and operates a beauty parlor in Ithaca.

They have the best wishes of a large circle of friends in this community, for he has made many friends on his numerous visits here.
